

A line drawing of a simple house with a gabled roof. The roof is composed of two sloping sides meeting at a central peak, with several rectangular tiles or shingles indicated along the slope. The walls are represented by simple vertical lines, and the base of the house is a horizontal line. The drawing is minimalist, focusing on the basic structure of the building.

This is a black and white architectural elevation drawing of a single-story house. The house features a gabled roof with a textured pattern representing shingles. On the left side, there is a large, single-car garage door with horizontal paneling. To the right of the garage is a central entrance consisting of a glass door flanked by glass panels, with a small, dark, rectangular porch roof over the door. To the right of the entrance are two windows: a small, narrow window and a larger, double-hung window. The entire drawing is overlaid with a large, green, diagonal watermark that reads 'Les Noms'.
